The Society of Psychologists in Management (SPIM) annual conference:
February 22-26, 2017, at The Scottsdale Resort at McCormick Ranch.

We are a small but mighty group and would like to have as many psychologist managers in the area join us for our conference.

The conference is entitled "The Heart and Mind of Leadership". Psychologists and leaders from private industry, public policy, academia, and government will discuss the importance of both the head and the heart in leadership. Leaders need to have a strong mind and an equally strong ability to identify, evaluate, control, and express emotions. As important, they need to be able to tune into and capture the hearts and minds of those around them.

Some of the exciting and challenging topics for the SPIM 2017 conference include:

- Words of wisdom from a Native American Sound Healer as he shares how the circle of life in Native American tradition can be used as a format for maintaining personal balance in contemporary society

- Exploration of what artificial intelligence tells us about the future of human cognition
- Observation and participation as a masterful executive coach takes us on a powerful journey of in vivo coaching
- Psychologists-turned-entrepreneurs share their stories of opportunity and struggle as they made the decision to go out on their own.

For psychologists interested in additional continuing education credits, please consider the Institutes occurring before and after the main conference. Institute topics include:

- Leadership and Beneficence in the 21st Century: A Paradox in APA's Ethics Code
- Preparing Psychologists for Management Positions
- Encouraging and Coaching your Dream: Starting Your Own Business for Psychologists
- Women in the C Suite: A Woman's View from the Corner Office
